

NOTE: Although these regulations make it sound as though someone licensed as a jail officer in another state can undergo the "jail officer training program" and become licensed in Mississippi, a representative of the Mississippi Department of Corrections said that this program has not been used in approximately 10 years and was unaware of any jail officer training program requirements (despite reference to those requirements in the regulations). This representative stated that the training received by jail officers is handled by a private entity and could not provide additional information as to what requirements an out-of-state licensee might be required to meet.

Detention officers trained or certified by other jurisdictions are required to meet all the requirements of the Jail Officer Training Program.
